Location: ECMC, 462 Grider St., Buffalo, NY 14215 – 3rd floor (Smith Auditorium)

Time: 12:30 – 3:45 pm (registration begins at 11:45 am)

Overview: The purpose of this live-training course is to serve as an introductory training for social workers, mental health professionals, first responders, spiritual care workers, and hospital staff on working with child survivors of disaster-related trauma and their families. In-class exercises will give you an opportunity to practice skills needed to work with children (target population up to age 12) and families in the immediate aftermath of disasters.

Learning Objectives:

- Describe the basic developmental tasks, issues and behaviors associated with childhood
- Identify a range of behavioral, emotional, and cognitive reactions that children may experience after a disaster
- Identifying key components of informal and formal assessments of children’s post-disaster functioning
- Describe the typical presentation of posttraumatic stress disorder in children
- Understand and describe several developmentally appropriate interventions to use with children and their caregivers
- Use a general understanding of cultural differences between survivors to provide culturally appropriate interventions to children and their families
- Use knowledge about how working with child survivors of disaster related trauma may affect you as a helper in order to provide yourself self-care

You must arrive on time and attend the entire training for CEU certificate; no partial credit is awarded
